TELLS OF USE OF LIGHT TRUCK IN GREAT FALLS

Fire Chief Says It Is Used In Outlying Districts of That City

Fire Chief R. F. Taylor, of the Great Falls Fire Department, has been told by a letter from the city of Great Falls that the fire department is using a light truck in the outlying districts of that city.

The city commission is to open bids for fire trucks Monday night. The success of the bid is in the hands of the city commission. The fire department is using a light truck in the outlying districts of that city.

The letter to Chief Taylor was from Mr. R. F. Jager, Fire Chief of Bismarck, N. D.

In reference to your letter of August 24 in which you request information regarding our one-ton light truck, I wish to state that we are using this truck in one of our outlying districts and for this purpose it is giving entire satisfaction.

I would not, however, recommend a truck of this type to cover the central or business district because a pumper is essential to the safety of practically any city. Our business and wholesale district is covered by two double combination trucks, one service truck and one triple combination.

As I stated before, our Ford truck is very satisfactory in covering outlying districts and if I were to recommend the purchase of another truck for this purpose it would be a Ford one-ton truck.

Trusting that this is the desired information, I am,

Yours very truly,
A. J. Prodrick,
Chief of Fire Department,
Great Falls, Mont.

URGES GRADUAL FARM CHANGE

Commissioner of Agriculture
Gives Views on Diversification

A gradual change into diversified farming rather than a sudden plunge entirely into the dairy business or any other phase of farming is advocated by Commissioner of Agriculture John N. Hagan.

"The farmer should grow into the dairy business and diversified farming rather than buy into it," the commissioner said. "The average man cannot afford to buy into it and if he does not have enough experience to enable him to make the business profitable if he can I have always advocated diversified farming and I do not believe any farmer should put all his eggs in one basket."

Mr. Hagan recalled that a few years ago the agricultural college extension department advised the purchase of sheep, many farmers and business men did so he said and later the market failed.

AUTO INSURANCE FIRMS MAY QUIT IN SOME COUNTIES

Too Many Thefts in Three Northern Tiers, It is Reported at Minot

Minot, N. D., Sept. 18.—Insurance companies writing automobile insurance in the three northern tiers of counties in North Dakota may withdraw from that territory as well as other sections on the border line from coast to coast if a resolution to be introduced at the national conference of firms writing automobile insurance in Chicago the latter part of this month is adopted. The insurance firms, according to Minot insurance agents, have found that writing theft and fire automobile insurance in the three tiers of counties along the Canadian border of North Dakota and certain counties in other states which lie along the border is not profitable. Thefts and fires believed to be on an increasing basis are so numerous that profits made in handling similar insurance in other fields are absorbed. It is stated, and many firms are known to favor withdrawing from this section.

Drastic Action Held Necessary.—According to advances received in Minot, the insurance companies contend that only drastic action such as having insurance firms withdraw can bring the people of this and other sections to a realization that automobile stealing must be curbed. It is held that in sections where there is wholesale stealing of cars, adequate police protection is not given automobile owners and the public takes only a passing interest in the matter. It is believed the action considered by the insurance firms will be taken. The purpose of having cities and counties provide more law enforcement officers and also creating public sentiment in favor of stamping out automobile thefts at all costs.

"The police and other officials do all they possibly can, but there are so many waiting for a chance to steal a car that it is hard for them to check this particular law violation. Public sentiment must back up the police and the public must be prepared to assist in stopping automobile stealing."

WOMAN SMILES DESPITE HER LIVING DEATH

By N. E. A. Service

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Mrs. Mary Smith with her back broken sits propped up in an invalid chair in a hospital here. The doctors say she will not live long, but she smiles and says she is the luckiest woman, and one of the very few persons ever to survive such an injury. She can't move, if she did, she would die immediately, the doctors say. And yet she smiles. "Why shouldn't I? I'm still alive, and while there's life there's hope," she says. Recently the doctors told her she had appendicitis, and that an operation was necessary. That on top of a broken back. But this extraordinary Pollyanna just smiled, and acquiesced. "Smiling's the best comfort anyone can have," she says. Mrs. Smith is 31. She has been married only a short time. Every day her husband calls at the hospital and she smiles. She cannot move. But she's waiting with a smile each time he calls. "Attaches at the hospital call her 'the smiling lady'." She broke her back when she bumped into a stake while swimming under water. Prompt medical attention was all that saved her life.

How many women, overworked, tired and ailing, keep up the ceaseless treadmill of their daily duties until they are stricken with female troubles as Mrs. Blake was, and are run down, weak and nervous. But every such woman should be convinced by the many letters like hers which we are constantly publishing, proving beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will overcome such troubles and restore women to normal health and strength. Letters about your health will be given careful attention and held in strict confidence if you write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS REGISTER IS ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Francis H. Register announce the engagement of their daughter, Helen Jarvis to Mr. Lewis P. Warren.

ANNOUNCEMENT LUNCHEON

Mrs. D. B. Register entertained eight of the girlhood friends of Miss Helen Register at one o'clock luncheon at her apartment at Person Court today. The luncheon was entirely in Japanese style. A Japanese tea rose at each plate, the heart of which held a piece of Japanese paper bearing the names of Helen Jarvis Register and Lewis P. Warren, were favors for the guests. The honor guest was presented with a corsage bouquet.

The center of the table was decorated with a basket of roses and lavender asters, the pastel color scheme giving a very charming effect.

Miss Helen Register, a member of one of the pioneer families of Bismarck, attended the Bismarck high school and after graduating entered the Valley City Normal school, completing her schooling at that institution. Miss Register has taught at the North Ward school for the last few years, and has a wide circle of friends in the city. Mr. Warren's home is in Westbrook, Maine. A graduate of Dartmouth college, Hanover, New Hampshire, he is one of the several Dartmouth men who have entered business life in Bismarck. He is president and manager of the Bismarck Bottling Works and has been active in the American Legion. Mr. Warren is a member of the Chi Phi fraternity, Dartmouth chapter.

War Mothers To Hold

Convention In California

The National Convention of the American War Mothers will be held at Sacramento, Cal., on September 29. Mrs. Albert E. Jones of Lisbon, state War Mother of North Dakota, passed through Bismarck yesterday after a brief visit at Hunters Hot Spring. She is enroute to Sacramento, Cal., where she will attend the National Convention of American War Mothers. At this convention a new national War Mother will be named and Mrs. Jones has been very favorably mentioned for the national president of this organization. The delegates from the Fort Lincoln chapter elected to attend the convention are Mrs. Robert Orr and Mrs. William Webb as alternates.

In a recent letter to State War Mother, Mrs. Albert Jones, our National War Mother, Mrs. Alice French, writes as follows:

"I have been on a tour of the battlefields and cemeteries with Major R. as an escort. The destruction is terrible and my imagination grew as I saw whole towns destroyed and the lovely French homes in ruins. Our cemeteries are beautiful and I am glad so many of our boys are remaining with their buddies over here. Mrs. French also writes glowingly of a wedding of one of our American boys who was married at "The church of the Madeline," and that she was "guest of honor" at an American Legion luncheon. The courtesies of the "American Woman's Club" of Paris have been extended her, and she writes of many receptions and afternoon affairs. At the first tea there was a film taken, showing the group of American, French, Italian and English War Mothers. This film will be shown in America. We will be glad to know of this courteous treatment accorded our charming and beloved Nation's Mother. Mrs. French will be in a few days in Cologne, about ten days in Italy, thence to England where she sails for home on the "Batavia."

It is expected that after her trip abroad the national War Mother will have an exceedingly interesting talk for those who attend the national convention the latter part of September.

(Established 1873)

REWARD

Jesse K. Scott, coal wagon driver in Minneapolis, lost his job. He was getting discouraged when a letter brought him a check for $1,800.

Twenty years ago Jesse saved a little girl from a runaway team. He'd forgotten it. But the girl's father hadn't—and willed Jesse the $1,800.

The girl, now grown up and a widow, has sent for Jesse to look after the Iowa farm she inherited from her father.

There's a romance of everyday life.

SOSA

Sousa, king of bandmasters, confesses that he has been hard of hearing for some time, and couldn't hear much more than a jumble when his men played.

Osteopathy is restoring his hearing.

How could he direct a band when he couldn't hear how they were playing? The answer probably is, that Sousa has his musicians so well trained they didn't require directing in the emergency.

An organization runs along automatically when built up and perfected by a genius like Sousa. Momentum, acquired from its creator, carries it.

MOVIE MORALS

There is a certain detestable species of male who takes advantage of the dim lighting in the movie theaters to annoy women. Women in some of the eastern cities are protesting against the conditions and are threatening to boycott movie theaters that do not reserve sections for their exclusive use when they are alone.

How many movie managers have done everything possible to protect their women patrons? Those who haven't ought to get busy at once in their own interest as well as in the interest of public morals.

GREATNESS

New York is the world's greatest city from the standpoint of population and wealth. It would have more reason to be proud of its greatness if it had found a way to protect the lives and property of its citizens. Its crime record during the first seven months of this year put it in a class by itself.

There have been 200 murders, an average of almost one a day, and 3000 automobile thefts, an average of about 15 a day. The value of the stolen automobiles is about $3,000,000.

Other crimes, such as burglaries and holdups, are in like proportion.

UNEXPECTED

Colby Turner, armless man, stops a team of large runaway horses at Washington Court House, O.

Turner leaped on the wagon, grasped the lines between the stubs of his arms, wound them around his body by whirling about, then halted the frightened horses by his weight.

That's exceptional presence of mind.

It shows how the brain can overcome physical handicaps.

TRIPLETS, AHoy!

The world is in for a six years epidemic of triplets and twins. This is the prediction of Prof. Charles Kirschhoff. Where does he get his information? From the stars?

Kirschhoff is an astrologer. He says the stars that "govern" the earth are in proper astrological position to increase the productivity of humans, and that the influence of these stars will be felt as powerfully as that which the moon exerts on tides.

"Babies will arrive by twos, threes and even fours," says Kirschhoff. "Within six years, the birth of a single child will be exceptional. Twins and triplets will be the rule."

A few hundred years ago, nearly every one swallowed whatever the astrologers told them. But no more!

In Budapest, a woman has just given birth to quintuplets—five children within a fortnight.

This case is authenticated. It has aroused intense interest in European medical circles. Quintuplets occur only once in 700,000 births, says Barsony, Budapest scientist.

Twins are not as rare. Columbia, Mo., has 32 pairs of twins in a population of 15,272. Thirty pairs of twins recently were counted in three public schools in Spokane, Wash.

Folks are not apt to have twins, triplets, quad-

uplets or quintuplets unless "it runs in the family."

Multiple births are hereditary, as a rule.

And a family with one set of twins is apt to have another. Thus Judge and Mrs. Richard Doherty of Jersey City have five sets of twins and one other child, after nine years of married life.

That is a record rivaled only by the champion father, R. C. Bland, North Carolina farmer, father of 34 children: 15 by his first wife, 19 by his second.

Man knows nothing about the mystery of life. Birth is a riddle. So is death.

Hence many can guess, but none can answer, "What causes multiple birth?"

All we know is that single births are the rule. Occasional twins, triplets, quadruplets and quintuplets merely emphasize that there are exceptions to all rules, even in Nature.

OLD TIMES

Families moving furniture will be interested in an old Mohawk & Hudson Railroad timetable, dated Nov. 23, 1840. It says:

"There are wagons always in readiness at Albany to carry the baggage of passengers to and from the railroad and steamboats, at six and a quarter cents per trunk or package, or 12 and a half cents for ordinary traveling baggage."

A dollar went a lot further in those days. Trouble was, getting the dollar.

LIFE

How much is your life worth? What would you pay to one who saved it? But are you sure you would?

Dr. Harry Marsh Warren's Save-a-Life League has prevented 6000 suicides in five years.

He says that none of those whose life he saved has ever given a penny to carry on the work.

Still, Dr. Warren has the satisfaction of a good deed well done. That's the real reward.

ADDRESSES

Fifteen thousand misdirected letters reach the Philadelphia postoffice daily. Other postoffices make the same complaint.

It costs Uncle Sam $5,000,000 a year to take care of mail, improperly addressed through carelessness.

You want to cut the cost of government. A good way to help is not to mail a letter or parcel until sure the address is right, with full details for delivering.

GOLD

The Russian soviet government now has less than $1,000,000 in gold. That's the estimate of our department of commerce.

This is a drop from $600,000,000 in gold holdings at the time of Kerensky's downfall.

Bolshevik money never has been worth much. When it gets rid of its last million in gold, it won't be worth anything.

That's why Lenin is beginning to talk sense.

Many ships long since aching to deliver their human cargoes will fail to get much comfort out of the Senate's resolution admitting aliens who sailed on or before June 8.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

NORWEGIAN VOLSTEADS

Norway, sharing a long peninsula with Sweden, lacks our complications in Volsteadism resulting from a long boundary separating land neighbors to the north and south, but it has its troubles with an insolent bootleggerism of the seas. Saucy craft loaded with comforting liquors take a station just beyond the three-mile limit and dispose of their stock to eager purchasers. Those who buy may come to grief in negotiating the distance between the three-mile limit and the shore, but the thirsty Norse navigators seem about as successful on this short course as thirsty Americans and the Norwegian Volstead agents are resentful.

There, as here, the proposal has been made that the distance from land over which the national authority is recognized shall be extended by certain marine miles, perhaps by as much as seven miles, making ten in all. Perhaps the proposal here was borrowed from that in Norway. After consideration, however, the officials of Mr. Ibsen's country have decided that it wouldn't do any good; in fact, that it would only increase their difficulties. "Why," they say, "it would add seven miles to the sea we have to catch and we can't begin to watch three miles now."

They are right, of course. Aside from possible diplomatic handicaps in making the change, an extension would only remove the prohibited transactions a little farther from land, where they probably would be made with as much facility as at the present time. The navigation and penal risks in getting cases of bottled goods in from the ten-mile line to land would not be greater than in getting them in from the three-mile line and they might in some instances be less.

Volsteadism is so far a matter of only domestic concern. Probably the less it is permitted to afflict international law the better it will be for the peace of mind of the experts in that subject and perhaps for international law itself—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

MARRIED IN 47 STATES, SINGLE IN 48th, SHE IS SUING HUSBAND

MRS. JAMES W. MARTIN, JR.

By N. E. A. Service

(Chicago, Sept. 10.)—Mrs. Ruth Tarnet Martin is the wife of James W. Martin, Jr., in 47 states, but not in the 48th, Illinois.

This because she married Martin in less than a year after obtaining a divorce.

She's suing him for $100,000 for breach of promise, alleging Martin said he's going through a second marriage ceremony with her in Illinois, but he failed to do so.

He's suing her for annulment of the marriage.

One charge made in the litigation is that during an altercation with Martin she fired several shots.

"I want to be an all-American wife," says Mrs. Martin. She objects to having to scratch the "Mrs." off her calling card and substituting "Miss" when in Illinois.

RECALL CAULDRON

(The Pot Boiled.)

Walt Taylor, editor of the La Moure Chronicle, who was defeated at the primaries of 1916 for state insurance commissioner by Mr. Olmstead to the tune of 49,000 to 23,000 has joined the "lame duck" chorus. Last The Tribune expressed its indifference to the recall. The Chronicle was sitting tight and viewing the landscape with a studied indifference.

Like so many other blind partisans who cannot sense an honest stand, The Chronicle takes up the chorus sounded by Jerry Bacon of the Herald, Tostevin of the Mandan Pioneer and Ernie Peterson of the Dickinson Press, who is going to shun us now as he would a pestilence. We can see the wings flapping over "Ernie's" haunches.

The Tribune's motives are charged to McKenzie-McCumber. Taylor still chafing under his retirement to the print shop the hell but once towel and all the rest, saw red and promptly sets off on the recall. How he figures the I. V. A. recall is going to end the socialist orgy when it proposes a bond issue of millions to continue the same thing he leaves to the imagination.

L. H. Bratton, a relative of Walt Taylor over at Rugby who, until a short time ago was opposing the recall also flirts with the other camp fearful that his position might presume that he is aligned with the McKenzie-McCumber faction. He has joined the Dickinson Press club whose motto is "see no evil, speak no evil, hear no evil."

As the Pot Boiled has stated time and time again, The Tribune holds no brief for the McKenzie-McCumber faction. It has never taken a single chief over the recall. The Pot Boiled does not know where they stand on any of the state political issues. From the positiveness with which Mr. Bratton and Mr. Taylor handle the subject they must have direct information of these points stand which has been denied the Tribune.

The Former State Insurance Commissioner, like so many others cannot understand that there might be such a thing as honesty in political convictions. It has been the sock in trade of the insurgents with which Taylor has always trained to shoot "thief" every time anyone took a position contrary to them. The writer in his seventeen years experience in North Dakota politics has seen this gag worked a dozen times. A credence should be placed in the political deductions of a man who has been defeated for office and now is heard the political rancor is still glowing.

Mr. Taylor, situated at a distance in the signature for the recall, was gathered into the Tribune's editorial attitude. This is false. As early as February 14, 1931 The Tribune said editorially:

If the time has not arrived to carry this case to the people, the platform unadorned by socialist expediency it is just as well to proceed to secure a patient and intelligent audience for a fearless fight on the lines.

We cannot go to the people and the disgraced ex-officials to pull the state out of the mire. The Republican party organization, anti-socialist in aim and committed to the Chicago platform, will get us back to solid ground.

The Tribune, in view of the fact that the La Moure Chronicle editorial entitled "Bismarck Tribune in Bad", it is in reality the "Song of the Lame Duck."

"The Bismarck Tribune let itself in for a storm of criticism when it recently announced that it was opposed to the recall election, that it would not support Mr. Nestor for governor, and indulged in slandering remarks concerning the I. V. A. leaders. Most of the independent newspapers of the state protest to see in this attitude confirmation strong as proof of holy writ of an alliance between the McKenzie-McCumber camp and the Townley-Lemke-Ladd-Lane. In the course of a lengthy editorial the Rugby Tribune, which was itself opposing the proposed recall election only a few months ago, delivers this oracular statement:

"There has been no question as to the relationship existing between the Alex. McKenzie faction and the Townley-Lemke faction. These relations have been most amicable in the past, and now they might be described as extremely cordial. When a newspaper like the Bismarck Tribune, which has professed to be an enemy of Townley-Lemke in the past, comes out openly now and opposes the recall election, it is useless for it to attempt to establish any creditable alibi. It just can't be done."

Porter J. McCumber and Alexander McKenzie on the one hand representing all of the rottenness and political corruption of the old days, and Townley-Lemke on the other hand, representing all of the political rottenness and corruption which has come to the surface in the newer "reform" element, have sur-ply joined hands and fortunes, recognizing that together they will present a formidable obstacle to the rescue of North Dakota by those who honestly have the best wishes of the state at heart.

"The Bismarck Tribune will at once see the futility of trying either to explain or to justify its position. It stoutly asserts that it is opposed to the whole scheme of state owned industries, whether controlled by the Nonpartisan league regime or the I. V. A. It has a deep and abiding hope of the final redemption of the state from socialist delusions. The cure for state socialism is not the I. V. A. extend, more socialism but an honest and fearless stand for a restoration of representative government."

So far as the latter-enders are concerned, that kind of talk is regarded as the most pitiful sort of piffle. No matter what one's mental attitude may have been a month ago—no matter how honestly one may have doubted the wisdom of a recall election—no matter how much one's sympathies for the farmers may have moderated his antagonism toward their "previous" program—the moment an announcement was made to force a special election—right then the staff was off. Crack goes the party whip, and the cowardly and pusillanimous and those who made a fetish of party regularity tumble over themselves to line up. That is the kind of politics Alex. McKenzie, A. C. Townley and the Rugby Tribune preach and want others to practice.

"What The Chronicle had more especially in mind at the moment, however, is the fact that there seems to be something of a split in the Republican ranks of this state. And while we refuse to jump to conclusions, nothing seems more likely than that there is a working agreement between the Nonpartisan league leaders. The straw point in that direction. Proposed federal appointments in North Dakota are being referred to St. Paul as they were in the old days. McKenzie and Ladd are joining together in fine style, and all goes merry as a wedding bell.

"If this 'dope' is right, the plot is a deep one and quite beyond the range of vision of the average rank-and-filer. The reactionaries will help to block the I. V. A. program, knowing full well that the league program is destined to complete and overwhelming failure, and that the higher the leaguers go the harder they will fall. Then will come the reverse swing of the pendulum, and in the pull of momentum the McKenzie-McCumber organization will be carried once more to complete victory and power.

"Thus the common people are between Scylla and Charybdis. What must they do to be saved? As The Chronicle sees it the best plan would be to pass the initiated laws, elect I. V. A. candidates and wind up the socialist orgy. This would mean the completion of the mill and elevator at Grand Forks, the strengthening out of the Home Builders' nightmare, the liquidation of the state bank mess, curtailment of expenses, reduction of taxation and a return to sane and normal conditions.

"But it would do even more than that. It would spike the plans of McKenzie and McCumber at the same time that it sounded the death knell of such political mountebanks as Townley, Lemke, Ladd and others."

As a preliminary to the recall campaign the Fargo Forum is daily discussing the issues as it views them in the following editorial which The Tribune prints as a contribution to political discussion of the major issues before the voters, the editor of the Forum concludes that the Nonpartisan league has switched from its original program and now proposes to put greater emphasis upon the co-operative scheme of marketing farm products.

The Forum's editorial follows:

THE BIGGEST ISSUE OF ALL.

"In sticking to the issues the proper place to discuss the biggest issue of all doubtless would have been at the outset, but it isn't too late yet."

"What is the biggest issue of all? Isn't it the whole theory on which the so-called 'farmers' program' or 'the new day in North Dakota' is based?"

"What is that theory?"

"It is the theory of state ownership of marketing facilities."

"The Nonpartisan league program included state ownership of terminal elevators and flour mills as its chief item. The claims were made that the farmers were being 'robbed' by the charges levied by elevators, were being given unfair treatment in the price paid for their grain and that the consumers were likewise forced to pay a big toll to flour millers."

"We were told that the construction of state-owned elevators and flour mills would solve this marketing problem, would bring the producer and consumer closer together, and would result in great benefits to both."

"What has become of that issue now?"

"It has been scrapped."

"Pick up any issue of the daily publication that is supposed to represent the Nonpartisan league policies, and you will find most of its discussion of economic questions devoted to the co-operative marketing plans of the United States Grain Growers. You don't hear anything more about state flour mills and state elevators except explanations of why the state flour mill at Drake failed, and why the state mill and elevator at Grand Forks cannot be completed. It is no longer even claimed that the state mill and elevator at Grand Forks will solve the farmers' problems. If they would solve them, why the need of the co-operative marketing plan?"

"On the largest issue of all, the proponents of the so-called 'farmers' program' have wholly abandoned their original stand and taken one directly contrary to it. State ownership is the very antithesis of co-operation. In state ownership the predominant feature is conservation of capital and credit of all taxpayers. Everyone is forced to contribute through taxation or the sale of state bonds. Nobody is permitted to exercise his own judgment as to whether or not he will engage in the milling business. He is told by the state that we must engage in it and his money is taken away from him for that purpose."

"In co-operation, on the other hand, he is permitted to exercise his own judgment. He may go in or stay out as he sees fit."

"Also, in co-operative marketing, the whole management of the enterprise is divorced from politics. A manager is not chosen for a four mill because he is a Republican or a Democrat, or because he is a 'wet' or a 'dry' or a suffrage advocate or an opponent, or because he is a Norwegian or a German, or because he belongs to one religious denomination or another. He is chosen because he knows something about the milling business. And in a co-operative bank the manager was chosen because he knew something about banking—at least more than he would pick up as manager of a livery stable."

"State ownership and co-operation are mutually exclusive. They differ both in principle and in method. When you have one, the other is unnecessary at least."

"That is why it is true that the 'biggest issue of all' has been abandoned by the present administration. The state officers we are trying to recall are no longer actively backing the 'farmers' program'. They have abandoned it and are trying to crawl under the tent of co-operative marketing where most fair-minded independent voters have long been found."

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

"Welcome, children," she said warmly. The Fairy Queen looked up from a letter she was reading, as Twinkle Pen, her secretary, came close to her throne and bumped his head three times on the golden steps at her feet.

"How now, Penny?" she asked.

"What is it? Luncheon ready, a new set of wings that my chief wing-maker wishes me to try on, or visitors?"

"Visitors," answered Twinkle Pen. "Twins! Nancy and Nick."

Twinkle Pen never wasted words. The Fairy Queen smiled delightedly. "How very fortunate!" she cried. "I've just been wondering whether they received my letter. Show them in at once for I have matters of great importance to talk over."

Twinkle Pen bowed himself out, and an instant bowed himself in again, this time followed by our little friends in their magical Green Shoes.

The Fairy Queen got up and held out her hand. "Welcome, children," she said warmly. "You always come at precisely the right time. Sprinkle-Blow telephoned to me that he didn't know what he would ever have done without your help. And now I have just received a letter from Captain Pennywinkle, my traffic policeman in the Land of the Wiggles, saying that even with the help of his good secretary, Curly, he can't keep order, and that he needs help. All my fairies are either heads over their ears with work or sound asleep resting up for next year. Flippety-Flop snores as though he would never wake. Would you like to go to Captain Pennywinkle's aid? He has a awful time keeping the fish on their own sides of the sea and I think you could help him."

"Yes, indeed!" cried the Twins eagerly. "We'll go at once, if we may."

The Fairy Queen called her faithful old servant, the Magical Mushroom, to show the children the way.

SCIENTISTS' TESTS SHOW WHY RUTH HITS HOMERS; EYE, BRAIN AND MUSCLE REGISTER FASTER THAN NORMAL

How does it happen that a man can hit a home run? Scientists have been trying to find out for some time. Now they have found the answer. It is not just the strength of the arm, but the speed of the eye, brain, and muscle. Ruth's eye registers the ball faster than normal, his brain processes the information faster, and his muscles move faster. This is why he can hit home runs so often.

RUTH TAKING VISION TEST

The test proved that Ruth's eye registers the ball faster than normal. The test was conducted by a team of scientists. Ruth was asked to look at a ball and say when he saw it. The results showed that he saw the ball .001 seconds faster than the average person.

Other tests succeeded one another rapidly. Ruth was seated before a board with a light that flashed on and off. He was asked to press the board when the light flashed. The results showed that he reacted faster than the average person.

The scientists say this is one reason why Ruth can hit home runs so often. His eye, brain, and muscle are all faster than normal. This gives him a great advantage over other players.

One thing that the tests showed was that Ruth's eye registers the ball faster than normal. This is why he can hit home runs so often. The test was conducted by a team of scientists.

Well, fans now Champ Johnny Wilson knows how it feels too. He didn't get his money's worth either.

Some rookie ball players figure they should draw more coin than an old timer cause it's harder for them when they don't know how.

While boxing commissions are squabbling over weights they should consider the guys who stand four hours waiting for the ticket wind to open.

Baseball goes round in circles too—but they get some place. Yeah some place—and some don't.
